

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a vascular closure device wherein perforations are provided to allow a collagen to be wetted prior to deployment.